PREFACE

1814507

Fifty-two years ago the pioneer edition of a REGISTER of the Alumni of M.I.T. made its bow and blush, listing a total of 9,978 names, alphabetically from "Abbot, Bessie Owen '99" to "Zuest, Adolph Jr. '07." Since 1909, at intervals of approximately five years, nine further editions have been published—eight by the Institute's Administration under the editorial direction of the Office of the Registrar, and one, that of 1955, bearing the imprint of the Alumni Association.

Compiling and editing data for the present volume, the REGISTER's 11th edition, has been an exacting process extending over a period of nearly a year. To the literally thousands of Alumni—36,242 up to press-time—who responded so cooperatively by verifying their individual listings, we tender sincere thanks.

We likewise acknowledge indebtedness to the M.I.T. Office of the Registrar for editorial aid; to the M.I.T. Office of Publications for our cover design and the typographical layout of the book's opening pages; to the Publisher's Composition Service of Brattleboro, Vt., who were responsible for much of the typographical composition; and to our printers, the Cuneo Press of New England, Cambridge.

Finally, since production of the 11th edition has been an expensive undertaking on the part of the Alumni Association, we extend grateful appreciation to the 7,128 "advance subscribers" whose tangibly expressed faith in this venture enabled us to proceed with confidence.

I. REGISTER OF THE INSTITUTE

Under the leadership of William Barton Rogers, at a meeting of persons interested in the formation of an institute of technology held January 11, 1861, at No. 16 Summer Street, Boston, an "Act of Association" reading in part as follows was adopted:

> We the subscribers, feeling a deep interest in promoting the Industrial Arts and Sciences as well as practical education . . . hereby associate ourselves for the purpose of endeavoring to organize and establish in the city of Boston such an Institution under the title of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, whensoever we may be legally empowered and properly prepared to carry these objects into effect . . . .
> Resolved, That a Committee of Twenty, with power to increase their number, be appointed to represent the interests and objects of this Association, and to act generally in its behalf until it shall be legally incorporated and regularly organized under the title and according to the purposes of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology . . . .

Later that January, the Committee of Twenty, after adding Dr. Rogers to their number as chairman, presented a petition to the General Court of the Commonwealth, which referred the petition to the consideration of its Joint Standing Committee. On March 19, 1861, this latter committee favorably reported a bill to the House (House Doc. 171, 1861); on March 25 the bill was ordered to be engrossed by the House; and on March 29, the same action was taken by the Senate.

On April 10, 1861, the legislative Act of Incorporation (Chap. 183, Acts and Resolves of 1861) was signed by Governor John A. Andrew, whereby Dr. Rogers, other members of the Committee of Twenty, and

> . . . their associates and successors, [were] hereby made a body corporate, by the name of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for the purpose of instituting and maintaining a society of arts, a museum of arts, and a school of industrial science, and aiding generally, by suitable means, the advancement, development, and practical application of science in connection with arts, agriculture, manufactures, and commerce; . . . .

On April 8, 1862, at a meeting of the entire Institute as then constituted, the charter was formally accepted, a new organization was effected, bylaws were adopted, and officers were chosen to serve until the following May 6, which was appointed as the date for the first Annual Meeting.

On May 6, 1862, "the Government for the ensuing year" was elected as follows: William Barton Rogers, President; John Amory Lowell, Jacob Bigelow, Marshall Pinckney Wilder, and John Chase, Vice Presidents; Thomas H. Webb, Secretary; and Charles Henry Dalton, Treasurer. The roster of the 54 Incorporators of the Institute is presented alphabetically below.

A "Preliminary Course of Instruction in the School of Industrial Science" opened in the Mercantile Building 16 Summer Street, Boston on February 20, 1865, under which date in his diary President Rogers wrote: "Organized the School! Fifteen students entered. May this not prove a memorable day!"

The first student to enroll was Eli Forbes, followed by six others, all of whom became members of the first graduating Class of 1868, viz.: Abraham Bailey, Samuel Eastwood, Eben S. Stevens, Joseph Stone, Bryant P. Tilden, and Robert H. Richards. During the spring months of 1865, total registration reached 23.

Besides President Rogers, who occupied the chair in Physics, the first Faculty numbered five others, viz.: John D. Runkle, Mathematics; William Watson, Civil Construction; Francis H. Storer, Chemistry; Ferdinand Bôcher, French; and W. T. Carlton, Freehand Drawing.

Since 1865, a total of 12,646 individuals have served on the Faculty and Staff of the Institute. For their names presented in alphabetical arrangement together with MIT Class affiliations, if any; the Institute Departments or posts in which they served, or are now serving; and dates of service see section "V. FACULTY AND STAFF."

Instruction continued at the Mercantile Building until February 1866 when some classes were transferred to the then unfinished new building at 491 Boylston Street, Boston. Beginning in the autumn of 1866, all instruction was transferred to the new building, which was officially named for President Rogers following his death in 1881.

From the autumn of 1866 until the academic year 1916-17, the Rogers and other buildings erected later in the vicinity of Copley Square, Boston, constituted the Institute's educational plant. The "New Technology" of the present Cambridge site was dedicated June 14, 1916, and instruction has centered there since the autumn of 1916, except for the Department of Architecture which was housed in the Rogers Building at 491 Boylston Street, Boston, until 1938.

Up to June 1960, the Institute conferred a total of 48,843 degrees, divided as follows: Bachelors, 32,144; Masters, 12,861; Advanced Engineering, 689; and Doctorates, 3,149. Up to 1886 when Master of Science was introduced, the only degree conferred was Bachelor of Science with specification of Course completed. Since 1886, further degrees have been introduced in chronological order as follows:

1907 Doctor of Philosophy
1910 Doctor of Engineering (discontinued after 1918)
1911 Doctor of Science
1921 Master in Architecture
1924 Doctor of Public Health (discontinued after 1944)
1932 Bachelor in Architecture
1935 Bachelor in City Planning (discontinued after 1954)
1936 Master in City Planning
1941 Master in Public Health (discontinued after 1944)
1949 Advanced Engineering

Under each degree in the following tabulation are listed its principal types of specification of Course or field of study used since 1868, together with the name of the candidate upon whom each type was first conferred and the total number of recipients up to and including June 1960.

> The regular membership shall consist (1) of all persons who have received a degree from the Institute, and (2) of such other persons as have been connected with the Institute for at least one full term as students in any Class already matriculated and who are qualified in the opinion of the Executive Committee. . . . Any regular member may withdraw from the Association by presenting a written request to the Executive Committee.
